

Overview

The University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health is pleased to invite you to attend our annual conference. The conference is dedicated to bringing you the latest innovations in the field of women’s reproductive and general health. Our faculty will provide discussions on state-of-the-art topics and techniques as well as cover age-old problems commonly encountered by providers of primary women’s health care. The content is relevant to all providers in the field of Women’s Health.

Learning Objectives

The 2018 Innovations in Women’s Health Conference is designed to:

- Discuss the impact of adverse birth and targeted opportunities for improvement as it pertains to the individual, the community and society
- Explain current preoperative recommendations for transgender patients planning to undergo sexual affirmation surgery
- Discuss different approaches to advocacy including surgical health policy, and patient advocacy
- Identify and discuss health disparities and efforts to improve care
- Explain pregnancy and postpartum care for women experiencing opioid use disorder
- Outline cancer prevention efforts with regard to the HPV vaccine
- Illustrate work toward treating family caregivers

Target Audience & Scope of Practice

This CE (continuing education) activity is intended for obstetrician-gynecologists, family physicians, general internists, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, midwives, registered nurses, and other interested health professionals.

Elements of Competence

This CE activity has been designed to change learner competence and focuses on the American Board of Medical Specialties areas of patient care and procedural skills, medical knowledge, practice-based learning and improvement, and interpersonal and communication skills. This activity also focuses on the interprofessional competency of interprofessional communication.
