December 10, 2025

Lisa A. Wilson, JD, CHRC; Jake Rome, JD; Kerry Moskol, JD

Provided by the University of Wisconsin–Madison Interprofessional Continuing Education Partnership (ICEP)

Intended Audience:

The primary audience for this educational series is physicians, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, registered nurses, and researchers affiliated with UW Health. Other members of the clinical team will benefit from participation.

Objectives:

As a result of participation in this educational session, learners as members of healthcare or research team, will improve their ability to

1. Explain when FDA considers AI software to be a medical device and how it impacts AI software development
2. Summarize IRB expectations and review processes around development and use of AI in research
3. Discuss compliance considerations for procurement and deployment of AI applications in healthcare settings

Policy on Disclosure

It is the policy of the University of Wisconsin–Madison Interprofessional Continuing Education Partnership (ICEP) to identify, mitigate and disclose all relevant financial relationships with ineligible companies* held by the speakers/presenters, authors, planners, and other persons who may influence the content of this accredited continuing education (CE). In addition, speakers, presenters, and authors must disclose any planned discussion of unlabeled/unapproved uses of drugs or devices during their presentation. For this accredited continuing education activity, all relevant financial relationships have been mitigated and detailed disclosures are listed below.

 Ineligible companies are those whose primary business is producing, marketing, selling, re-selling, or distributing healthcare products used by or on patients. The ACCME does not consider providers of clinical service directly to patients to be ineligible companies.*
